TESTIMONIAL

I am Katherinne Kuan. Initially I only wanted to create a simple blog talking about how I used Feng Shui in my everyday life. I thought that I would just get any freelance programmer to program a blogspot, but I am very glad that I chose Firstcom (an established multi-media company) instead. Right from the start, Firstcom has been very helpful and very accommodating in providing me with reference websites, so I have some idea what I could do. Indeed, my experience with Firstcom has been so good that I have bought more and more images ($800 phoenix + $500 shutterstock) because it seemed a pity to mar the beautiful website created by Fynn with my lousy photography skills.

I am very grateful to my programmer Vincent for always understanding what I am trying to show my blog readers. He is good at interpreting what I want, and he puts what I am asking in programming codes. And he is spot-on all the time!

And, of course, I love the handsome young man Weili, who is in-charge of my web. At first I was not sure about getting someone so young, but he has instilled confidence in me. Despite me being a 'small-time' blogger, he puts in the same effort as he would a big corporation. For this, I am grateful because he represents Firstcom, and by doing so, he shows to all customers that Firstcom values and treasures all customers big and small. I think this is very important as more and more entrepreneurs surface in Singapore. Even though small companies may not sound glamorous on the portfolio, many big corporations start off by being small companies too. Who can tell the future? I'm glad that the team at Firstcom understand this! Kudos to you guys for being far-sighted!!! Many small businesses budgets add up to become a big corporation budget too! And another happy point I want to make is that the youth and energy of Weili has many advantages too! For example, he would offer me ideas that are more relevant in nowadays society. I find his insights very valuable, and though he might not agree (LOL!), but I do take his opinions into account. For example, I was only going to do a blog entry, but because of his encouragement, I did up other sections as well! Today, I am grateful to him for encouraging me and pushing me to go further. My website, www.doesfengshuiwork.com is just amazing!

Because of this wonderful experience with Firstcom, my husband has also joined me in engaging Firstcom for his financial website. To the both of us, this is money well-spent because we have Professionals looking after our websites from hosting to domain matters to creation to SEO to SEM for at least 10 more years. Thank you, Firstcom, Fynn, the 2 Vincents and of course, my darling PE Weili!
